The Annual Congress of the Italian Society of Cardiology will take place in Rome December 11-14, 2015 in the traditional venue of Rome Cavalieri Hotel.

The Congress represents the most qualified occasion for scientific exchange and education for cardiologists, as it will cover all fields of basic, translational and clinical research in cardiology. Traditionally the Annual Congress is devoted to the new generations. It's a great opportunity for the young cardiologists to present and share their research activities in dedicated sessions (poster and oral presentations).
